Master Kim’s Visit to Romania

By Florin and Andreea Serbanescu

On the 24th of May, Master Hyunmoon Kim began his first visit to Romania. He accepted the invitation of Florin and Andreea Serbanescu on behalf of the Romanian Sun Do practice community to receive information, instruction, and guidance from Master Kim himself.

On the 25th of May, Master Kim was invited by the Spiru Haret University as special guest in the conference entitled “Sun Do – the perennial value of Korean tradition.” Spiru Haret University is one of the biggest private universities in Romania, with headquarters in Bucharest. There have been meetings with professors of the university to establish a future partnership between Spiru Haret University, Hanseo University in Korea, and the International Sun Do Association.

Professor Matei Georgescu interviewed Master Kim at TVH station, with the title of “Sun Do - Ancient Science for the Future.” The interview, which ran for 50 minutes, discussed the Sun Do practice routine, Mountain Taoism philosophy, Master Chung-San (Blue Mountain), Master Kim’s experience with Sun Do in his own life, and the connection between Sun Do and psychotherapy. The interview was broadcasted on June 25th and is also uploaded on YouTube. Here’s the link: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=mQ4RaN0G_Cs

Interview at TVH station

Before the evening conference, Master Kim had a meeting with professors of Spiru Haret University to discuss possible academic exchanges. People from different backgrounds and ages attended the conference, showing their interest in the importance of natural breathing and in exploring a practice that restores their health, peace of mind, emotional balance, and state of wellbeing.

Conference at Spiru Haret University in Bucharest

The community of Sun Do practitioners in Bucharest enjoyed morning practices and a Saturday workshop guided by Master Kim, after which we traveled to Brasov, where Master Kim led another workshop with the Brasov Sun Do community.

In both workshops people experienced and received more information about Sun Do tradition and practice. For some participants, these workshops were a real turning point in their lives, giving them another perspective on breathing, body, mind, and life in general. Also, we understood that regular training in Sun Do creates the ability to better manage our lives. Therefore, we can apply what we practice in the session to different life situations.

Workshop in Bucharest

From Florin Serbanescu, Yellow Belt practitioner and Instructor Trainee:

“I want to share with you something very different that is happening with me in the last week or so (after the seminars). I continued to practice yellow belt, and all day I felt a very big vitality that brings me a lot of energy. However, what is different is that this vitality is not related to body strength, meaning that even when I am physically tired, this energy continues to drive and help me. Also, my attitude has changed a lot, and I am much happier. I was talking two days ago with somebody I have known for some years, and he told me that he feels that I have changed in a good way. I just wanted to share this with you and to thank you.”
Some of the participants decided to attend the international retreats in the Czech Republic or the USA, to commit to the practice, to learn the routine, and to deepen their experiences, which will then support their health, inner harmony, and life.

After Master Kim’s departure, both communities continued to practice, and there are now weekly morning sessions of Sun Do in Bucharest and Brasov.

Romania is grateful for having this chance to learn and develop into the Sun Do tradition, such a beautiful and supporting gift from Korea, an ancient science for the future development of humankind.

Matei Georgescu is a Professor at Spiru Haret University in Bucharest, with Ph.Ds in Psychology and Philosophy. He is the writer or co-writer of 13 books in the field and published about 40 articles in Romania or abroad. He is the host of a TV show named “Interviews with Matei Georgescu.” He has had interviews with hundreds of personalities from music, theater, education, religion, and spirituality from all over the world.

Florin and Andreea Serbanescu got in touch with the Sun Do practice in 2011. At that time, they practiced weekly for about a year. They reconnected with Sun Do in 2016 when Master Kim started retreats in the Czech Republic. From an early age, they searched for arts and practices that would support their lives and wellbeing. This also brought them together as a couple. They own a small IT business and are leading Sun Do practice in both Bucharest and Brasov. Sun Do and the knowledge from Taoism supported them not only in developing a more balanced and healthier life, but also in managing their business and team.

Work on the New Building Has Begun!

During the summer retreat, excavators arrived to start digging the hole for the foundation for the new kitchen/dining hall/bathroom building at the retreat center. The goal is to complete Phase 1 (exterior) this fall and Phase II (interior) by next summer.

We need to raise additional funds to complete the building and then move on to Phase III, which will provide cabins for sleeping. Please consider donating!

If you aren’t able to make a lump sum donation, consider becoming a sustaining member by making a pledge that you pay for over time, as Diane Matta and Ginger Hobbs have been doing. Just a small amount each month adds up!

Taoist Poetry by Us

At the summer retreat Betsy Forrest gave a workshop on Taoist poetry, at which she challenged retreat participants to write their own Taoist poems. Some of the participants decided to have a bit of fun: each person wrote a line, folded the paper over so the next person couldn’t see what was written, and then passed the paper along. The following are three of the results, and you should try reading them from top to bottom and then from bottom to top:

Poem #1

In this fleeting moment, I heard voices.
Idly I gaze at the trees,
The wind in the trees.
The poplars sing, and I sigh, away from home for 35 years.
Who is there to see this?
My feet on the sand,
Is it you that I heard crying?
I am so filled with thoughts,
The moon and the stars.

--Tora, Diane, and Lucie

Poem #2

That blackberry catches my eye, but I pick this one.
I dance when water is flowing.
I sighed when you came into the room.
Where are the horses?
I did not know you were here.
The roof creaks as the metal grows in the sun.
When I crack my thoughts, birds fly.
What is an empty mind?

--Tora, Diane, Lucie, Virginia, Rich

Poem #3

Silent for days, then hooting like an owl,
But to each their own.
Simplicity, patience, and understanding,
Who are you in the midst of nowhere?
The breath provides nourishment as does the dew to the morning blades of grass.
Moon rises, sky breaks, light flashes.
Chipmunks, run! Gather your seeds.
Paper is wood and water thought in action.
The sound of drums,
Who are you? You find your spirit?
Sun Do, spirit, color, life!

--Too many people to remember
